Beaches

Kata Beach

Kata

The pleasant bay of Kata, just a few minutes south of Karon Beach, entices and charms many visitors with its white sands and clear waters. Very popular with families, Kata is an all round favourite due to its spectacular palm-lined beach, great restaurants, lively but not raucous nightlife and varied accommodation options - all close to the beach. From May to October surfers flock to catch Kata's waves and from November to April the beach is alive with sunseekers.

Activities:
 Surf House Kata
 Kata-Karon Viewpoint
 Thai Cooking Classes

 Free
 CC's Shuttle

Kata Noi Beach

Kata

This cosy little bay is found at the end of a beachside cul-de-sac, just a few minutes' drive over the hill from Kata beach. There's not much to do in Kata Noi apart from admiring the wonderful scenery, which is precisely the point of coming here. Relax, take a walk along the soft sands, snorkel or swim.

It's long been a popular spot for surfers in the monsoon season of May to October at the end of the beach nearest Kata.

 Kata Noi View Bars
 Kata-Karon Viewpoint
 Thai Cooking Classes

Beaches

Karon Beach

Karon

Karon Beach is very long, 5km (three miles), with fine white sand that squeaks when you walk on it throughout its entire length. At the north end, in front of the lake, the beach is usually deserted, making it a great spot to go if you want the beach to yourself.

In the Northeast monsoon season November to April there are very few waves and the water becomes crystal clear. In the Southwest monsoon season waves become fun for body surfing.

Activities:
 Beach Volleyball
 Karon Temple
 Parasailing

 Free
 CC's Shuttle

Patong Beach

Patong

Patong is the most famous beach in Phuket. With its wide variety of activities and area nightlife, Patong is an ideal place to party and play. Patong's 3-kilometre beach is the most populated in Phuket and a reliable hive of activity. The best time to come to Patong Beach is from November to April (during the northeast monsoon) as the water is very flat and calm.

Gay Beach is located in the centre of the beach near the Rainbow flag.

Activities:
 JetSki
 Gay Beach

Nai Harn Beach

Nai Harn

Nai Harn beach is one of the most beautiful beaches in Phuket with its excellent water quality. It's encompassed on both sides by jungle-covered mountains and there's a large freshwater lagoon inland. Never overloaded, even in high season, Nai Harn's usually busier at weekends as it is popular with both Thais and expats. Many tourists who come to Phuket never make it to this wonderful stretch of sand. At the southern end the lagoon flows into the sea, creating a stream that children love to play in.

Activities:
Paragliding
Windmill Viewpoint
Surfing

Laem Ka Beach

Rawai

Laem Ka is unique for various reasons. First of all it's the only eastern-facing beach in the south of Phuket that offers good swimming and secondly, it's a total full-on Thai experience. This sheltered, 150 metre long, boulder-framed beach is the ideal picnic spot as from midday on it is shady and cool. For many locals it offers the opportunity to chat away Sunday afternoon while their children splash around in Laem Ka's safe and blue waters just metres away. Laem Ka is a best swimming spot during Monsoon Season.

The southern end of the beach is rocky but at high tide it is perfectly possible to swim out and snorkel.

Yanui Beach (Nai Harn Noi)

Nai Harn

Ya Nui lies in the shadow of two of Phuket's loveliest viewpoints; Phrom Thep and the viewpoint featuring large white windmill/propeller power generators.

It's a charming little cove featuring good snorkeling, kayaking and fishing. The sand is beautifully soft and children love to collect shells on this beach.

Activities:
Snorkelling
Kayaking

Nui Beach

Nai Harn

Nui Beach is one of the most beautiful 'secret beaches' in Phuket. It is really a tropical dream destination come true: perfectly maintained and cleaned up by the staff, it features a bar/restaurant, as well as many activities - snorkelling, beach volley, sea kayaking, fly boarding, donut boating, massage, sauna, and even scuba diving. The catch is that its one of the most difficult beaches to get to. The dirt road down to the beach is very steep and should only be attempted with a 4x4 vehicle or trail bike.

Activities:
Snorkelling
Kayaking
